Here you are in the ESL class:

What do you want to do?
Or: What is important?

• No, not to you. To them.
General ESL Academic Paradigm

Take ESL classes – Make level gains – Graduate program – Take more classes
Just a slice of students’ realities
So plan for

1. Students dropping out. Give them something they can use today.
2. Students only staying for your class. Give them something they can use by the end of the term.
3. Students going on to the next class in your subject area. Give them the tools to be ready for it.
4. Students going on to the university. Ditto #3.

(These are the academic English students)
By the way...(a digression?)

Why I went back to believing in anecdotes and case studies and why I left behind much of what I know about stats and argument essays – kudos to

DR. DAN KAHAN Professor of Law and Psychology at Yale University:
Here are the results overall, comparing subjects' performances on the "skin cream" versions of the problem (above) and the "gun ban" versions of the problem (below), and relating this performance to their political affiliations and numeracy scores (same data, different subject):
"Liberal Democrats" (< 0 on Conserv_Repub)  "Conservative Republicans" (> 0 on Conserv_Repub)

- CR rash decreases
- LD rash decreases
- LD rash increases
- CR rash increases

- LD crime decreases
- CR crime increases
- LD crime increases
- CR crime decreases

Numeracy score
The fact is that you shouldn’t just be trying to raise your numbers.

Raise your number of success stories.
A critique of required English classes, or an argument against arguments. Presenting a good argument is usually only a good thing in academia.

Winning an argument is not important. In fact, the opposite is usually true. Think about:

- Your boss
- Your wife
- Your professors
- Your kids

Sorry English majors. I know this is very important in position papers. In real life it will only get you into trouble.
Unless…

You can make the argument practical.

• Why my day care is better than the next person’s daycare.
• Why my garage (if you’re a mechanic) is better than anyone else’s in town
• Why swamp coolers function better and are cheaper than refrigerated air. (If you sell and repair swamp coolers)

Yes, I’d say there’s definitely something wrong with his eye. And your right upper arm is definitely not sexy.

TIME FOR YOUR SHOTS!

POWERFUL NURSES RIGHT IN YOUR OWN HOME
What else do I do? Build on all prior knowledge. You’ve got to ask them these questions:

Where are you? What did you do before?
- I was a teacher in my country
- I was a bank teller in my country
- I worked in a factory in my country
- I was a pharmacist, but now I’m retired

Where do you want to be?
- I want to open a day care
- I just need a job
- I want to be able to talk with my neighbors
- I want to be able to talk to my children’s teachers
A case study

Before

• I worked as a teacher in Afghanistan
• I worked security for Haliburton for 10 years (more common than you think).
• I am bored in this ESL class; it’s too easy.

Right Now

• Right now you can get a job working security and surveillance anywhere, especially if you have a letter of recommendation from your last employer.
• There are ESL/vocational classes out there you can take. ESL/ECE ESL/ Nurse assistant. They’re FREE!
How can I put this in my lesson on Monday?
What is Your Goal?
My goal is

What Strengths do I have that can help me reach my goal?

Why is my goal important to me?

What challenges/problems do I have that might stop me from reaching my goal?

If I don't reach my goal, what will happen?

What do I need to reach my goal?

If I reach my goal, what will happen?

Why is my goal important to me?

1. What did you do before you came to the USA?

2. What do you want to do now? What do you want to do 2 years from now?

3. What do you do in English now? (For example: Watch TV in English, Listen to the radio in English, speak English at work, etc.)

4. What makes learning English difficult for you?

5. What helps you learn English?

Thanks!

What do you do every day?
The vast majority of ABE students:

• Eat
• Work
• Drive or ride public transportation
• Take care of children
Jane woke up this morning.
She got out of bed.
She ate breakfast.
She went out to look at cars because she wanted to buy a car.
All the cars she looked at were very expensive.
She went to a bike store and bought a bike instead.
She rode the bike home and was happy.
Another example: Learning numbers in ESL

- What number do you call at CNM if you locked your keys in your car or have any other similar emergency?
- Negotiate the price of an automobile in English. (Save your student hundreds of dollars).
- Dictate your phone number and have students call you anytime they have to be absent. Role play it.
- What is minimum wage? How much would it be for a 40 hr. work week?
- How much are you paid in benefits?
- Advanced: How much money are your benefits worth to you?
And Craigslist is good for numbers

Just with the “autos for sale” section. Can be used at any level
• Auction
• The price is right
• Find it

Look for high interest material. Drop what doesn’t pertain to them, like jewelry might have been to my class two weeks ago…
ESL students who want to get a GED:
A good goal.

• GED classes are FREE. Your ESL students will often need free classes because they can’t afford anything else. They can get a broad general education in English this way. My grandfather did this in his own manner...

• However, I have questions for students who want to get a GED in Spanish. Although many jobs ask for a GED or high school diploma, will your GED in Spanish qualify? Could you do a GED in English?
Is the CASAS important? Let’s see what’s on it.

- Passport Photo Ad
- Directions for a company’s safety procedures for chemical spills
- Questions about an ID card (What is the expiration date, etc.)
- Directions for a bottle of spot remover.
- A little map
- A little calendar
- Directions for a disinfectant
- Directions for shutting off gas in an emergency
- A call routing list, who to call for what. (A list of extensions in a company).
- A “while you were goofing off” note.
- A “what to do if you were unfairly denied credit” notice from the Federal Trade Commission (3 ques.)
- Chicken flavored rice directions.

- Job performance evaluation (3 questions)
- Part of a Resume (3 questions)
- A summons
- Employer’s safety brochure page.
- Directions for a computer drive installation.
- One Newspaper article.
- Directions for using a phone’s speed dial, etc.
- Warehouse delivery receiving directions.

The entire test is reading. Almost half of the test is over directions.

Only two questions are from a reading that could be called a story of any kind.

- No questions over fiction.
THANKS FOR COMING!

I hope you enjoyed it!
- Take home a packet if you like

Three ways to view car/truck ads:

- ALL CARS & TRUCKS
  (dealer + by-owner)

- BY-OWNER ONLY
  (private party, no dealers)

- BY-DEALER ONLY
  (no private party)

personal safety tips

How to recognize a vehicle scam on Craigslist:

(Scam= plan to cheat; false ad)

- Shipping a vehicle to you is suggested by seller - Offers to ship a vehicle are virtually 100% fraudulent

- eBay Motors or another intermediary is specified by seller - eBay has no involvement in craigslist for sale ads, and any eBay or similar emails or web pages you receive are fake

- Payment by Western Union or a money wire is requested - only a scammer will ask for this, and any funds sent will be lost

- Price is unusually low - if a deal sounds too good to be true, it probably is!

- Do not buy vehicles sight-unseen, regardless of low price. The vehicle does not exist, and any money you send will be lost.

- Stories about divorcees or departing military needing to sell quickly at a low price are generally fraudulent

If you see these tell-tale signs, flag ad as "prohibited" and avoid

10. $20  toy car  negotiable = OBO
1. Before you begin, go over numbers, single digit, tens hundreds and thousands. Review terms such as negotiable and OBO as they come up. Go over the warnings about scams (easier with advanced students).

2. Have students number their papers 1-10, scroll through and read each description aloud. Have students randomly shout out the prices they think the vehicle is worth. You can even do it as a mock auction if you like.

3. When you get to the end, see who came the closest to guessing the correct price.

4. Remind them that many times sellers will negotiate.

5. You can follow up with a lab asking them to find a car, house, furniture, or anything they’d really like to buy on craigslist. Ask them to tell you what they think is the best deal in the category they chose and why.

- I have done this with all levels. They all get a lot out of it. Always there are a few who have bought something on craigslist as it is worldwide.
1. What did you do over break (the last 4 weeks)?
2. Did you visit relatives or take a trip?
3. Did you watch any good movies?
4. Did you work like me?
5. Did you go out to dinner?
6. Anybody watch or play any sports?
7. Anybody get back income taxes? Did you spend them?

Sotries to cut into sentences for students to assemble below:
My name is Alfonso. I was born in Nicaragua.

I got married when I was 21.
My children were born in Nicaragua. We lived there until I was 24. That was 1989.

Then we all drove to America in 1990 in a van. It was a long trip.
When we got here my wife and I found jobs cleaning offices.
We have better jobs now. We have our own cleaning business.

My children are older now. They have graduated college and have good jobs too.

Arthur rode his bike to the barber shop.
When he got there, he locked his bike outside and went in.
The barber asked Arthur how he wanted his hair cut.
Arthur said “Just cut it short, and then shave my head.”
The barber asked, “Are you sure you want your head shaved?”
“Yes”, Arthur said. “It’s because I have no more shampoo.”
When he was finished, he went outside, unlocked his bike, and rode home. His head was cool.
I took a book from the library.

It was a cook book. I opened it.
I looked up a recipe for pumpkin pie.
In the book were three different recipes for pumpkin pie.
I closed the book and put it back.
Why did I do that? I only wanted one recipe for pumpkin pie.
I woke up at 6:00am on Monday morning.
I got out of bed. It was still cool outside.
I put on my work clothes and went into the kitchen. I found some tortillas and cheese.
I melted the cheese on the tortillas in the microwave. I made coffee.
I ate the tortillas and cheese and drank the coffee. I went to the bathroom and shaved.
I was just about to get in my car and go and I remembered it was Memorial Day.
I laughed and went back to bed.
I wanted to start a garden, so I brought home some bags of fertilizer.

I spread it on the ground and mixed it in the soil.
I planted a baby tomato plant in the soil.

I watered it every three days in May.
I watered it every two days in June and July.
By the end of the summer I had about 50 tomatoes.
I ate a lot of them with my wife.

Finally we gave the rest away to friends.
The alarm rang at 6:00 am and I got up.
I went into the kitchen to make breakfast.
So first I got out some bread.
I put it in the toaster to make toast. I got out some butter and a knife for the toast, too.
Second, I got out some coffee and put it in the coffee maker. I got out some milk for the coffee too.
Third, I got out some orange juice and poured a glass.
Finally I put everything on the table.
Then my wife sat down at the table and said “Thank you for making me breakfast! What a nice surprise.” Then she ate it all.
Cecilia was going to get married so she needed to pick out a wedding dress.

She went to a couple of wedding dress stores.

Unfortunately, she couldn’t find one that was her size in the stores. She was seven feet tall.

She went home and looked online. The extra tall dresses were very expensive.

After looking online for hours, she called her mother.

Her mother said she could make one for her. All Cecilia had to do was get some nice material.

Her mother made her a beautiful dress and Cecilia was very happy.
